BAFN sent us two foster homes right away when we were in need and both homes worked out great. Thanks to Laurie and her tireless efforts we were able to save six more lives.

This is what a good organization does - help other organizations!

We are a member of the Mayors Alliance and the money we get from them (even with our nominal adoption donation) is hardly enough to cover our costs. Most of the money still comes out of our own pockets, because the animals we get often need extensive medical attention, rehabilitation, behavior modification, training and follow up care.

Does anyone even care what Laurie went through before she founded BAFN? Ask her. I'm amazed she's still in the rescue business at all anymore.

People should think twice before posting negative things without doing proper research. It does more harm than good.

this is in or around for the last time, hopefully!
